HALL'S HAIR RENEWER.

The great popularity of this preparation, after its test of many years, should be an assurance, even to the most skeptical, that it is really meritorious. Those who have used HALL'S HAIR RENEWER know that it does all that is claimed.

It causes new growth of hair on bald heads—provided the hair follicles are not dead, which is seldom the case; restores natural color to gray or faded hair; preserves the scalp healthful and clear of dandruff; prevents the hair falling off or changing color; keeps it soft, pliant, lustrous, and causes it to grow long and thick.

HALL'S HAIR RENEWER produces its effects by the healthful influence of its vegetable ingredients, which invigorate and rejuvenate. It is not a dye, and is a delightful article for toilet use. Containing no alcohol, it does not evaporate quickly and dry up the natural oil, leaving the hair harsh and brittle, as do other preparations.

Buckingham's Dye FOR THE WHISKERS

Colors them brown or black, as desired, and is the best dye, because it is harmless; produces a permanent natural color; and, being a single preparation, is more convenient of application than any other.

THE STAGE.

ZOLA has agreed to write an opera libretto in four acts for the Paris grand opera in collaboration with M. Bruneau, who helped him in dramatizing "Une Page d'Armour." It is to be ready in the spring.

GOUNOD'S "Faust" will soon have its thousandth performance at the Paris Opera. Ambroise Thomas has been asked to write the music for a scene which will be introduced on the occasion to glorify the composer.

MRS. FANNY STIRLING, who for over fifty years held a high position on the English stage, having acted with Macready in the thirties and with Henry Irving in 1886, has just married, at nearly eighty, Sir William Gregory, an octogenarian like herself.

MR. BEERBOHM TREE recently transported his entire company of sixty persons from Balmoral, where he had been acting before the queen, to Dublin in time for the next evening's performance. The distance of five hundred and sixty-one miles, including the passage of the Irish sea, was made in less than seventeen hours.

NATIONAL PROSPERITY.

The Sea an Important Factor in the Advancement of Mankind.

It is impossible that one who sees in the sea—in the function which it discharges toward the world at large—the most potent factor in the national prosperity and in the course of history, should not desire a change in the mental attitude of our countrymen toward maritime affairs. The subject, says the North American Review, presents itself not merely as one of national importance, but as one concerning the world's history and the welfare of mankind, which are bound up, so far as we can see, in the security and strength of that civilization which is identified with Europe and its offshoots in America. For what, after all, is our not unjustly vaunted European and American civilization?

An oasis set in the midst of a desert of barbarism, rent with many intestine troubles, and ultimately dependent, not upon its simple elaboration of organization, but upon the power of that organization to express itself in a menacing and efficient attitude of physical force, sufficient to resist the numerically overwhelming, but inadequately organized, hosts of the outside barbarians. Under present conditions, these are dyked off by the magnificent military organizations of Europe, which also as yet cope successfully with the barbarians within. Of what the latter are capable—at least in will—we have from time to time, and not least of late, terrific warnings, to which men can scarcely shut their eyes and ears; but sufficient attention is hardly paid to the possible dangers from those outside, who are wholly alien to the spirit of our civilization; nor do men realize how essential to the conservation of that civilization is the attitude of armed watchfulness between nations, which is now maintained by the great states of Europe.

The Universal Plant.

The tobacco plant has become thoroughly naturalized in every part of the world, and in many parts of Asia and Africa has become so completely domesticated that several writers have contended that it is aboriginal in one or the other of those continents.

A FOOTBALL HERO.

He Was More of a Man Than He Got Credit for Being.

It was a great cross to Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett that Roger was apparently quite devoid of any worthy ambition. Their two older boys were so utterly different. Fred had been graduated from Yale with the highest honors and Horace was making remarkable progress at the scientific school; in fact, they were both exceptionally fine students, which made the contrast all the more striking.

For Roger was sadly unlike his brothers. He seemed to labor under the impression that he had been sent to college simply and solely for the purpose of learning to play football. Apparently nothing else had power to kindle the slightest enthusiasm in his sluggish breast, and his father and mother argued and expostulated with him in vain.

"You are frittering away your valuable time," they argued again and again, "and are letting slip golden opportunities, which, once gone, never will come back to you; and what have you to show for it all but a broken nose and a fractured collar bone?"

"Is there any prospective benefit to be derived from these hours spent in scrabbling after a football?" his father questioned, severely; to which Roger merely responded in his usual off-hand style: "Who knows but I may be elected captain of the 'varsity team next year?"

"Is that the height of your ambition?" his parent returned bitterly. "I am terribly disappointed in you, sir; are you to go on playing football forever and ever, or what do you propose to make of your life? Perhaps you think that your reputation as a football player will prove an 'open sesame' to all desirable positions. Do you suppose that anyone wants a fellow who has willfully wasted his best opportunities? I had hoped to make a professional man of you, not a professional athlete, and had even aspired to seeing you some day in our leading law office with my old friend Wilkinson Smalley; but it's no use, Smalley wants only young men of the highest promise," and Mr. Bartlett sighed wearily.

"It does no good to talk to Roger," he confided to his wife afterward, "for hardly ten minutes had elapsed after I had been remonstrating with him about the evils of football before he inquired if I wouldn't bring you down to see the game on Saturday, and informed me that he had saved two tickets for us."

Mrs. Bartlett regarded her husband helplessly. "What did you say to him then?" she queried.

"I told him 'certainly not,'" Mr. Bartlett exclaimed warmly, "and I expressed my surprise at his daring to suggest such a thing. Show me some lasting benefit, or any abiding good, that is to be derived from this ridiculous game, I told him, and then come to me to abet you in such folly, but not till then."

And so Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett failed to witness that memorable game in which their youngest son gained for himself such enviable laurels. Once in the field, Roger was like one transformed. Keen, alert, cool, rising splendidly to every emergency, no one would have known him for the same slow, indifferent, easy-going specimen of humanity who grieved the ambitious souls of his parents by his small aptitude for Greek.

Not that Roger was by any means a dunce, for his class standing was fairly good, but what pained his father and mother was the recognition of what he might have accomplished had it not been for that arch enemy, football.

The great game over, the victorious team hastened back to their gymnasium with all possible speed; they had some little distance to go, as the gymnasium was not very near the ball grounds, so that in order to reach it they were obliged to traverse the center of the town and cross the railroad tracks.

Roger, who had been detained a moment or so longer than the others, reached the station a short time after they had crossed, and found the platform crowded with people who were returning from the game, mingled with those who were alighting from incoming trains. As he stepped upon the platform he became conscious that something unusual was going on, and he immediately perceived that the eyes of the multitude were riveted upon a figure halfway across the tracks, a figure pausing there in bewilderment.

"There's a train coming each way," somebody gasped. "Why doesn't he get off the track?"

The station agent and one or two other officials were shouting loudly, but the man, who was old and very deaf, appeared thoroughly dazed; as he was prepared to step upon the track nearest him he had caught sight of one train coming down upon him and he now staggered back and was about to plunge in front of the other down-coming express when suddenly something very unexpected happened.

As the crowd of bystanders shrank back with horror-stricken faces, convinced that they were about to witness the terrible fate which must instantly overtake the old man, a figure in a much-begrimed canvas jacket sprang out from among them, and clearing the tracks at a bound alighted beside the swaying form of the other.

A shudder and a wave of pitiful regret swept over the motionless crowd. "He can never drag him back in time," they breathed; "they will both be killed—oh, the pity of it!"

But our football man had no thought of dragging the unsteady figure in front of either approaching engine. In an instant he had tackled the man and thrown him flat upon the ground between the two tracks, for all the world quite as if he had been an opponent on the football field; then he dropped lightly on top of him and lay there motionless, while the two trains thundered past on each side of them and the crowd stood waiting spellbound.

In much less time than it takes to describe the episode, it was over, and what might have been a tragedy had proved only a bit of melodrama after all; yet as Roger jumped up and pulled the old man onto his feet, applause and cheers louder than any that had greeted him on the football field rang in his ears.

Abashed and quite overwhelmed by such an ovation, Roger made haste to elbow his way through the crowd, and in so doing nearly overthrew his own brother Fred, who happened to be standing directly in his path.

"For heaven's sake, was that you, Roger?" he cried, confronting him in astonishment.

"Do let me get out of this," his brother responded impatiently; "they needn't make such a fuss because I knocked the old duffer over," and he bolted in the direction of the gymnasium.

Saturday nights generally brought the scattered members of the Bartlett family together, as the collegians always made a point of coming home to spend Sunday under the parental roof tree.

On this particular Sunday evening all were assembled before Roger came in. Fred was all agog to describe the scene that he had witnessed, but he unselfishly held his tongue. "I'll not spoil his story for him, but will give him a chance to do justice to it," he mentally ejaculated, as he watched his brother swallowing his soup with unruffled composure.

But Roger said nothing upon the vital subject, and Fred looked at him with increasing surprise as he judicially set forth the respective merits of the opposing football team, and called attention to their most vulnerable points.

"I'll turn in early to-night, I think," he yawned, as he withdrew from the dining room. "I put pretty solid work into the last half of that game," and he leisurely wended his way upstairs.

"I wish that Roger would put a little solid work into something else," his father volunteered, as he disappeared from the room.

At this, Fred, who had in times past repeatedly scoffed at his father's athletic proclivities, instantly fired up.

"Father," he burst forth, "you're making a big mistake about Roger. He's got more genuine stuff in him than all the rest of us put together, and if it's football that's done it, the sooner that we all go in for the game the better;" and he then proceeded to give a graphic account of the afternoon's experience, which caused his father to blow his nose loudly and repeatedly, while his eyes glistened with happy pride, and which sent his mother weeping in search of the sleepy athlete, who couldn't understand what he had done that was worth making such a fuss about.

A few days later Mr. Bartlett received a note from his old friend, Wilkinson Smalley, which ran somewhat as follows:

"DEAR BARTLETT: I hear that your Roger is going in for the law, and if so I want him. When he gets through with the law school you can hand him over to me, for he's just the material that I'm on the lookout for, and you may well be proud of him.

"He soared me out of a year's growth the other afternoon at the station, the young rascal, but in spite of that, I wish you would tell him to come round and take dinner with me some night, for I want to talk to him.

"With kind regards to Mrs. Bartlett, believe me, ever your friend,

"WILKINSON SMALLEY."

When Roger came home the following Saturday his father handed him the note, remarking: "I'm afraid I haven't appreciated your football, old man, but I'm going to do better in future; and, by the way, Roger, I hear that you're to play in the game at Springfield next week; is that so?"

Roger nodded.

"Very well, then," Mr. Bartlett continued, "your mother and I would like to have you get us the best seats that can be bought, for we've set our hearts upon going to see you make the first touchdown."—Boston Transcript.

SCIENTIFIC NOTES.

LORD KELVIN holds that the internal heat of the earth has nothing to do with climates. The earth, he says, might be of the temperature of white-hot iron two thousand feet below the surface, or at the freezing point fifty feet below, without at all affecting a climate.

A FRENCH railway has lately arranged its telegraph lines so that at a prearranged signal the wires are switched from the telegraph instruments to telephones, thus enabling the operators either to talk verbally or to communicate by the telegraphic code at will.

COMMODORE MELVILLE, U. S. N., expresses the opinion that not only speed but maximum economy in fuel will be attained through the use of the triple screw in steamships, each acting independently of the others, the center one alone being used for slow cruising. Other expert naval engineers concur in this opinion.

REFERRING to the decreased mortality among children in some countries, it is interesting to know that the sanitary condition of a region may in a measure be guaged by the infant mortality; that is, the death rate of children in a district is a sort of hygienic barometer of the surrounding physical and moral atmosphere.—Popular Health Magazine.

Such Is Fate.

Long she stood at the window and mused. The rays of the setting sun entangled themselves in her Titian hair or surrounded her glorious height of five feet eight inches with an aureole halo. Proud, queenly, limbed like a goddess, she was indeed a magnificent specimen of femininity. "Strange," she muttered. Then a soft, half-pitying, half-happy smile flitted across her face like a gleam of April sunshine. "Strange," she said again, "to think that I, who only six short months ago was the quarterback of the Emancipated Maidens' football eleven, should have lost my heart to a man whose collar is a size and a half smaller than mine. But such is fate. And I love him!" Carelessly picking up a forty-pound dumb-bell she tossed it out of the window and across the lot, and then sought her boudoir.

A QUEEN'S BATH.

How the Queer Royal Custom Is Observed in Madagascar.

Since the great African island has lately caused a great deal of talk it will not be uninteresting, says London Tid-Bits, to give some account of the strange ceremony practiced at the Malagasy national festival every year, as related by nearly all the travelers who have visited the land of the Hovas. The "Fandroana," or royal bath, was first instituted by King Ratambo, and is held annually, by royal proclamation, from November 22 to January 10. During this time no business is allowed to proceed. The people of the kingdom meet the queen in the silver palace on the first day of the festival, and a red cock is then brought by the head priest or sacrificer of the court. Its neck is wrung, and its blood, being caught in a banana leaf, is carried to the sovereign, who touches with it her forehead, neck, stomach, armpit, finger nails and toe nails. The rest of the assembly follow the example.

Next day the people assemble again for the royal bath in the great palace. This the queen takes in one of the sacred corners of the hall, in a silver bath, being screened from view by "lambag," held by her attendants.

Amid the firing of cannon and the joyous shouts of her humble subjects, her majesty then passes along the balcony, and from a horn in her hand sprinkles the crowd with the water she has just been using for her ablutions, exclaiming at the same time: "Masina, aho!" (I am purified). This sprinkling is said to typify an abundance of rain during the coming year.

To be absent from the ceremony would be to incur the royal displeasure, so that the French plenipotentiary minister himself, M. le Myre de Vilers, who is now again on his way to Madagascar, had to submit himself, in 1886, to this strange ordeal. Every wife, also, must be with her husband at the time, or it is considered that she is as good as divorced. The new year is then supposed to have begun, and for several weeks there is a great deal of visiting and feasting.

BARGAINS IN INDIA.

Merchants Sometimes Come Down with a Jump in Their Prices.

Indian travel is full of surprise, pleasant and otherwise. A gentleman, wishing to purchase some of the beautiful Cashmere shawls which are made not far from Delhi, went to one of the largest establishments in the city. The merchant showed him a book in which was written recommendations of his goods by Gen. Grant and his son, as well as by many others.

Among the recommendations was this one in German: "I have bought shawls of this man and think I got them cheap; but do not offer him a third of what he asks."

The gentleman selected two very beautiful shawls, and asked the price. The merchant, after a little consultation with his clerks said:

"I have not sold a shawl to your party. I sell you very, very cheap. You may have these beautiful shawls for fourteen hundred rupees."

"Absurd! Let us go!" said the gentleman, having in mind the German's advice, and he started for the door.

"Don't go," said the merchant; "make me an offer."

"I will give you four hundred rupees for both shawls."

To his astonishment the merchant replied:

"Take them; I will send them to your hotel."

At Jaipur the same traveler lodged in a hotel conducted by a native, but owned by the rajah. He found the following amusing notices posted in various places:

"If visitors are not satisfied with the food or cooking they can deduct from the bill what they consider fair."

"Guests are requested not to strike the servants."

ABOUT EMBLEMS.

The Significance of Many of Them Shrouded in Mystery.

What the learned Dr. Aiken once called "A Visible Image of an Invisible Thing," in fact the emblem, has so little record in modern times, that even the encyclopedias give concerning it only the dictionary definition. Yet two centuries ago it formed the subject for the work of some of the best writers, painters and engravers of Europe; while antiquity has illustrated it in a myriad of forms, the meaning of which is in thousands of instances lost to us in the mystery and darkness that overshadows the history of so much of human life.

Any object which presents at a glance a meaning beyond its mere appearance is an emblem. The torch for Illumination, the scales for Justice, the anchor for Hope, the owl for Wisdom, the butterfly for the Soul, the scythe and hour-glass for death. The first attempt at writing was emblematical, and Chinese writing is so to this day. So were the Egyptian hieroglyphics and the same can be said of our own Indian picture writing.

All coinage, from the first Hebrew shekel to the last American dollar; all the flags of all nations; all state or national seals, are emblematical of something. The cross, the crown, the scepter, the miter, every church steeple in every land, mosque, minaret and pagoda, temple and shrine, idol and fetish, all are emblems.

Every letter in every language, every figure, the sign of every trade and profession, the roses of England, the lilies of France, Ireland's shamrock and Scotland's thistle, are all emblems. And yet, strangely enough, it is only by persistent search that one can find out even the least about the origin of this class of art, the meaning of its varied forms, the hidden sense being often lost utterly while only the form remains.

Patti Changed Her Mind.

A distinguished instance of a complete revulsion of feeling over one's first impression is said to be afforded in the case of Mme. Adelina Patti. Some years ago she took a pronounced dislike to a French tenor, allowing her unfavorable impression to influence her professionally to the degree that she refused to sing with him. Gradually, however, she grew able to tolerate, then grew fond of, and, finally, when she added Nicolini to her name, married him.

BREWERS' HORSES.

They Are, as a Rule, Fat from Eating Brewery Grain.

Did you ever see a thin, square, cadaverous, bony horse pulling a brewery wagon? Probably not in New York, though such a thing could happen, though it would not pass without notice. The reason for it is simple, says the New York Sun. These horses are fed on what is known as "brewers' grain," the residue of the brewing process, a nourishing but unsalable product of the brewery. When the labor of beer making is ended gallons of these grains in liquid form are poured into closed wagons and carted to the stables, where they are fed to the horses. They are fattening, and give brewery cart horses that rotundity which is the marvel of many, who do not understand the true cause of it. It is estimated that nearly seventy per cent. of brewers' grains are water and unavailable for transport, except at large expense, for considerable distance, and, more than this, they spoil easily, so must be used at once as they come from the brewery, hot and steaming. In some places, especially out of New York, these brewers' grains are fed to cattle with very good result, but in this city the supply is taken up chiefly in the stables of the largest breweries.

Very few persons have stopped to compute the extent to which horses are necessary in the brewery business. The largest of the city breweries has two hundred and fifty horses constantly in use in delivering kegs of beer to customers distributed about New York city and Brooklyn. The next largest has two hundred horses, and so on down the list, the total number of brewery horses in the city footing up five thousand.

SILK FROM WOOD.

A Recent Discovery of Great Commercial Importance.

At Bradford, England, silk has been made from wood pulp so much like the real thing that it bids fair to occupy a place in commerce and use. It is produced by subjecting vegetable fiber to the action of various acids, the result being a product said to be identical with the filament of the worm, having its lightness, luster and all its qualities, including that of durability. Commercially speaking, says the Philadelphia Ledger, the importance of the discovery can hardly be overestimated, and it is possible that it will produce the most revolutionary consequence in the trade in that commodity everywhere. The world's stock of silk, both woven and raw, is immense and has always held a staple value likely to be much shaken and disturbed by the intrusion of a new supply which can be cheaply and abundantly produced. Samples of yarn, fringe, braid, gimps, sewing silks, handkerchiefs, brocades and other fabrics, dyed in various colors, have been exhibited by the Bradford makers to the trade and pronounced all right and up to the commercial standard in all respects. With artificial diamonds and rubies such as are now being turned out in great abundance, modern society will doubtless take on a style of splendor hitherto unknown, outshining the courts of Solomon or the queen of Sheba or the retinues of Mahmoud or Haroun Al Raschid.

AN AMERICAN AIR.

A German Band Leader's Idea of the Proper Thing.

A good story was told by a Boston man who was in Antwerp while the preparations were in progress for the exposition. Representatives of all nations were there preparing exhibits from their respective countries. In the evening, says the Washington Star, all the visitors were in the habit of gathering in a large hall on the grounds to listen to the band play. Out of compliment to the visitors the national airs of the different countries were played, and received an ovation from the group of that nationality in the hall. The night that our Boston friend attended the band performance this playing of national airs was on the programme. All were played, but not a thing that could be twisted into an air for the bird of freedom. A delegation of the Americans went up to the leader and told him that they felt slighted that their country had not been recognized. With profuse apologies the leader said it was clearly an oversight, and promised to give them the American air at once. He distributed the music, and, waving his baton, the band broke loose, not with any familiar patriotic air, but "The Man That Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo." Amazement among the Americans finally gave away to visions of "Old Hoss" Hoey and his song, and when the band finished the tumultuous applause from the American delegation elicited an encore.

A Great Fortune.

The huge fortune of the late Mr. Hugh McCalmont, which for seven years has been accumulating at compound interest, will pass into the sole control of the heir, Mr. Harry Leslie Blundell McCalmont, the well-known owner of Isinglass. The amount is believed to be not much, if at all, less than four million pounds sterling, and the bulk of this enormous sum was accumulated by the testator while a member of the once prominent firm of McCalmont Brothers. Rumor has it that the amount to which Mr. McCalmont will succeed exceeds that at the absolute disposal of any other single person in this country, and this is not improbable. Of course larger amounts are owned by some of the great city magnates, but probably in most cases their wealth is not entirely unfettered; it is either subject to heavy charges, or else is invested in business from which it could not be easily disengaged. The largest amount of personalty recorded in recent years was that of Baron de Stern, which amounted, we believe, to some seven million pounds sterling, acquired largely through Portuguese finance operations.

Misery Shared.

The Parisian beggar is generally a person of wit. One of the fraternity met one evening, at eight o'clock, a gentleman who was on his way to a dinner party.

"Have pity, monsieur, and give me a sou," said the beggar, "for I have had no dinner to-day!"

"Get out!" exclaimed the gentleman. "I've had no dinner, either!"

"Too bad!" answered the beggar. "Make it two sous, then, and we'll dine together!"

EBENSBURG, CAMBRIA CO., PA.,

FRIDAY, - - FEBRUARY 22, 1895.

It has been found that State Treasurer Rufus Ramsay, of Illinois, who died suddenly three months ago, was short $363,395,90 in his accounts.

Ex Gov. Isaac P. Gray, of Indiana, for two years U. S. minister to Mexico, is dead, aged 68 years. Deceased was a native of Chester county, Pa.

The harmony among the European powers is not so great but that each one is wearing a stove lid inside its vest, and keeping one eye on its right hand neighbor.

With the Populists holding the balance of power in the senate, the country may yet be forced to admit that the windmill is still a factor of energy in American statesmanship.

Italy is going to abate part of the taxes of the section recently injured by earthquakes. When the present legislature gets through Pennsylvania will need an earthquake for the same purpose.

In Northern Italy the wolves have been so impoverished by the deep snow that they have invaded the towns and several persons have been killed and devoured. The authorities called out the troops to slaughter the wolves.

Gov. Knute Nelson has been elected a United States Senator from Minnesota to succeed Washburn. Although a Republican, Governor Nelson is an open and avowed free trader. While a member of congress some years ago, he delivered several speeches against the monopoly tariff policy and voted for the Mills bill.

There is a marked contrast between the poverty and calamity wails, on which Governor Hastings made his campaign, last fall, and the jobs that are being pushed through the legislature for creating new offices and squandering the public moneys. When these bills come before him for his signature, citizens will be better able to see just what kind of a reputation Governor Daniel is entitled to for sincerity and integrity.

The application of Judge Dunham to the attorney general for a writ of quo warranto to require the three judges conducting the judicial contest between Sitser and Dunham in the Sullivan-Wyoming district to show by what authority they are holding the court of inquiry was refused at Harrisburg on Wednesday. The attorney general was asked to grant the writ on the ground that the act of 1874 authorizing the court is unconstitutional.

Because the councils of Scranton, Pa., a few years ago attempted to coerce the late Judge John Handley in placing asphalt paving on the avennes fronting his Wyoming House property, by passing a resolution establishing a cow and hay market thereon, this city is left unremembered in the will of the dead jurist, which was admitted to probate on Monday. He had intended leaving $1,000,000 for a library, but Winchester, W. Va., gets it instead.

A special from Salineville, Ohio, says that every coal mine in that immediate vicinity is in full operation for the first time in 10 years. These mines have a capacity of more than a hundred cars per day and are now furnishing employment to about 600, most of whom were sorely in need of some means of earning a living. Indications also point to a resumption of work at the plant of the Salineville Furnace company, which has been idle for the last six months.

Nine hundred of the electrical workers of New York struck on Tuesday for an eight-honr labor day. The board of walking delegates of the building trades declare that if any firm employs an electrician who is not a member of the Electrical Workers' union, they will order on strike every man in the building trade, and as the board claims their mandate will extend to every man at work anywhere within a radius of 50 miles of the city, 80,000 men will go out on strike when ordered.

Some curious facts were brought to light of the capabilities of men to labor at high altitudes during the construction of the Peruvian Central railroad. This line starts at Lima, and proceeding inland reaches its highest point at the tunnel of Galeria, 15,645 feet above sea level. It is stated that men were able to do a fair "sea level" day's work as long as the altitude did not exeeed 8,000 to 10,000 feet above sea level; but beyond this there was a sudden falling off in the work of one-fourth to one-third up to heights of 12,000 feet, and at still higher elevations 100 men were required to do work easily done by 50 at sea level.

Railroad construction in 1894 indicates the low ebb of the transportation business of the country. The record is the lowest in twenty years, and the only exceptions in three decades were in 1875, 1866 and 1865. The top notch year was 1887, when 13,000 miles were laid. This year Arizonia heads the list with 193 miles, Illinois comes next with 148 and then Pennsylvania with 128. Only one mile was constructed in Oregon. The total mileage in all the states was 1,919; in Canada 322 and in Mexico 74. Of course, these figures give no narrative of the vast and rapidly increasing mileage in electric railways, which now contest with the steam roads for supremacy. The two hundred miles of the New York and New Haven road, for instance, is now paralleled in that way for one hundred and fifty miles.

Counting pairs, says the Pittsburg Post, the test vote in the senate for the consideration of the free coinage bill on Monday showed that the senate on a full vote would stand 45 senators in favor of the pending bill and 42 against, there being one vacancy. Possibly the majority will be larger when the question comes up on the passage of the bill. It has been estimated as high as 10. For free coinage, on a full vote, it appears there are 26 Democrats, 11 Republicans and 8 Populists. Against free coinage there are 25 Republicans and 17 Democrats. Senator Cameron was the only senator from a northern state east of Indiana that voted for free coinage. The rest of the votes came from the south and west. Senator Quay voted against the silverites. Thus, on this important question, the vote of Pennsylvania was practically neutralized. It can be said that Senator Cameron has the courage of his convictions, as on every vote on the question he sides with the free coinage senators, and a contingency is possible by which his vote will pass the bill in the senate. The debate in the senate is useless, for should the house pass the bill, which is doubtful, with the chances against it, the president will assuredly veto it. Pressing the bill at this time is to make capital for it in the next congress and with the people. But there is a reasonable certainty that no free coinage bill can become a law before the 4th of March, 1897. Mr Cleveland is pledged to interpose his veto, and was elected with the clear understanding he would do so, should the emergency arise.

Nobody, says the Harrisburg Patriot, now expects financial legislation at this session of congress. The time has passed when any action can be taken upon any bill for the relief of the treasury.

It is insinuated that the loan proposed by the president is in the nature of a job by which a loaning syndicate will make $25,000,000. This may or may not be true. If it is, nobody imagines for an instance that a syndicate lends money for diversion. If it is not true, then the administration has been maligned for the simple purpose of defeating the bill which would have saved $16,000,000, in interest.

If the insinuation of jobbery is base less it was none the less the imperative duty of congress to put a stop to the transaction. At any time during the present session congress could have passed a financial bill but it lacked the disposition to do so and evidenced, in stead of an inclination to serve the best interest of the country, simply a determination to defeat any and every measure that might come from the administration.

The house on the idea that somebody was to make $25,000,000 out of the new loan, defeated the proposed three per cent. short term gold bonds. As a consequence of this action the higher interest bonds will be issued and the $25,000,000 will be lost, together with $16,000,000 more that could have been saved.

Snow fell continuously and in quantities never before known in the southern states on Thursday and Friday. The storm raged from Texas to North Carolina. All the Gulf states are robed in white. In Texas snow fell in every county and varied from 2 to 14 inches in depth. There is 12 inches of snow in New Orleans, something never before known in the history of that city. At Mobile, Ala., the depth is 5 inches; at Atlanta, Ga., 10 inches; at Columbia, S. C., 6 inches; at Darien, Ga., on the coast, 4 inches, snow having never before been seen on the ground at that place. Two inches of snow at Savannah, Ga., was such a novel thing that the schools were dismissed so that the children could enjoy the rare sport of snowballing. At Tallahassa and Jasper, Fla., 2 inches of snow astonished the natives.

A New York dispatch of Wednesday says: The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has taken the lead in a movement to effect a combination of soft coal interests shipping to tidewater. Each year about this time, an effort of similar import is started. It has usually ended with indifferent results. The failure has been attributed to the lack of interest taken by the transporting companies, or their refusal to co-operate.

The plan proposed to govern the trade of 1895 provides, among other things, that each producing interest be allowed an output equal to the average of the past five years. Any excess shall be assessed 10 cents a ton. The execution of the plan is calculated to give producers 90 cents a ton at the mine. The trade in this city entertains many doubts as to the ability of the companies to carry out such a scheme

Judge Charles E. Taylor, under indictment for attempting to kill Deputy Sheriff Shoemaker, will be impeacned if the Venango county lawyers can do it. The Legislature will be petitioned to investigate the judgment upon the charges brought against him.

The committee of the Venango county bar appointed to investigate the charges against Judge Taylor on Saturday made their report at a meeting of the Bar Association. The testimony taken before the committee went to show that judge Taylor is and has been for some time, incapacitated for the duties of his office, and that his conduct has been immoral, arbitrary, vindictive and subversive of justice. It is also averred that during the trial of cases Judge Taylor had used vulgar and indecent language.

Although all the 354 members of the Pennsylvania legislature take a solemn oath that they will not use railroad passes during their term of service, for that is what an oath to "support, obey and defend" the constitution means, if it means anything, yet it is stated only two members of the present legislature have declined to accept the railroad courtesies.

Washington Letter.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18, 1895.—With the senate pulling one way and the house the other there is little probability that President Cleveland's advice will be taken to the extent of saving $16,000,000 in interest that will have to be paid on these 5½ and 4 per cent bonds. The house ways and means committee has reported a resolution for the saving of those millions by authorizing the issue of 5 per cent gold bonds.

But nothing can be hoped from the senate, where it has been announced by those who are strong enough to make good their language that the only financial legislation they will agree to is the bill for the unlimited coinage of silver, which has been favorably reported from the finance committee. This bill provides that the government shall coin and deliver for each dollar's worth of bullion presented at the mints one silver dollar, and that the difference in weight shall be retained as seigniorage, and was originally a section of a general financial bill introduced by Senator Jones, of Arkansas.

It would seem that Secretary Carlisle's statement, that the only reason for not at first making public all the details of the contract made for that purchase of gold with bonds was that it might hamper the other contracting parties, and that the administration had nothing to conceal should have been sufficient, but it has not prevented some of the senators from making exhibitions of themselves.

Senator Hill had a little fun with "his whiskers", otherwise known as Senator Peffer, this week. "His whiskers", wanted to know why his resolution asking the senate judiciary committee to report on the legality of the bond issues by this administration could not at once be acted upon. Senator Hill, a member of the judiciary committee, said, in the absence of the chairman of the committee, he was not at liberty to explain why a report had not been made, but he stated that the committee would be disposed to get the opinion of the attorney general before acting upon such a question. This angered "his whiskers" who said: "Oh, I do not want to hear from the attorney general. I regard my own opinion on this point as good as that of the attorney general." "Then," said Senator Hill amidst laughter on the floor and in the galleries? "I have nothing whatever to say, after that statement." The sarcasm was lost upon "his whiskers", who prompted by his egotism continued: "I have no doubt that I have given it not only more careful consideration, but more intelligent consideration." This time Senator Hill joined in the laughter which closed the farce.

The senate amendment to the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill, appropriating $500,000 to start the laying of a government cable to Hawaii, has many bitter enemies in the house, which has refused to concur therein. The bill is now in conference, and unless the senate recedes a contest lasting to the closing days of the session, and maybe resulting in the failure of the appropriation bill is inevitable.

Secretary Carlisle took some of the conceit out of ex Speaker Reed this week, but he still has enough left to supply a dozen ordinary men. The incident occurred when Secretary Carlisle was explaining to the ways and means committee of the house, of which Mr. Reed is a member, why and how that bond contract was made by the administration. Mr. Reed pompously inquired of Secretary Carlisle why his substitute, which was last week defeated by the house, was not satisfactory to the administration. Secretary Carlisle answered by reading a clause of the act of 1874, which had been overlooked by all the speakers during the financial discussion, and which would have nullified any benefit that might have been derived from the Reed substitute. For once Mr. Reed was lost for an answer. The law read by Secretary Carlisle gives the holders of national bank notes the right to have them redeemed by treasury notes, if they desire, and as the treasury notes are redeemable in gold, it practically makes national bank notes also redeemable in gold. The Reed substitute only recognized the greenbacks as redeemable in gold. There is a heap of ignorance, in congress as well as among the people, on this financial question.

Boss Platt took a day off from the arduous duty of directing the Republican majority of the New York legislature and came over to Washington this week to issue a few orders to the New York Republican members of the House, and to give Lemuel Eli Quigg a few pointers for the editorial page of the New York City Platt organ. ## Uncle Sam's Big Lumber Suit.

Duluth, Minn., February 18.—A suit which promises sensational developments has been begun in the district court, resulting from the indictment at Grand Rapids of George Lydick. The suit is the first of a series involving a theft of 2,300,000 feet of timber supposed to have been stolen from government and reservation land in the last two years. Lydick himself admits he has trespassed on this land for a year and a half. The number of defendants is not less than 300, but they almost without exception were working in the interests of big lumbering corporations. The amount to be recovered is over $50,000, and it is to be the largest suit of the kind ever undertaken by the federal authorities.

Carried The Feeble Queen.

Queen Victoria was so distressingly afflicted with rheumatism of the joints when she alighted from her railway carriage en-route from Osborne to Buckingham Palace this morning, that she had to be assisted from the car down an inclined plane to the platform, where she was placed in a chair and carried to her carriage.

She was accompanied by her daughter, the ex-Empress Frederick, and to prevent the populace seeing how helpless their sovereign was, trains of empty cars were standing between her car and the Victoria station. A large dinner party was given at Buckingham this evening.

The Elbe Disaster.

Buffalo, N. Y., February 19.—An action for damages against the North German Lloyd Steamship company will be brought by Siegmund Frank, the brother of Jacob Frank, the Buffalo ticket broker, who was lost in the wreck of the steamship Elbe. The damages specified will be $50,000. The first steps in the proceedings were taken yesterday in application to the Surrogate for limited letters of administration. Siegmund Frank gave bonds and qualified as administrator. Affidavits have been obtained from two of the survivors, Carl Hoffman and John Vevera.

Five Men Taken Out Dead.

Ashland, Pa., February 18.—An explosion of gas which will probably result in the death of at leas 11 miners occurred at 10:30 o'clock this morning in the West Bear Ridge mine, at Mahanoy Plane. Five men have been taken out dead, and six so seriously injured that their lives are despaired of.

The dead are: Peter Kline, aged 40 years of Ashland, leaving a wife and six children. Joseph Pitts, aged 20, of Girardsville, unmarried. Thomas Durkin, aged 40, of Mahanoy Plane, widow and five children. Peter Greenback, aged 40, of St. Clair, widow and four children.

The seriously injured are: William Minnich and William Goff, of Ashland; Anthony Myery and Edward Davis, of Giardsville; John Laney and William Davis, of Mahoney Plane. Besides these, several other miners were badly burned, but it is hoped they will recover

A gang of men were engaged in driving an air course, when they broke through into a breast containing a large volume of gas. This was instantly ignited by their lamps, and an explosion followed. The timbers in the air course caught fire, and all means of escape were choked off. Some of the dead men were burned almost beyond recognition. The mine is still on fire, and an effort is being made to extinguish the flames by means of a hose attached to the water main.

Died Saving Two.

Greenport, N. Y., February 18.—Lillian McMullen, a 15 year old heroine, employed by Joseph Fahy, at North Haven, was drowned yesterday afternoon while crossing Peconic Bay on the ice. Since the recent blizzard the people of north Haven, who go to Shelter Island to do their trading, have been obliged to walk over on the ice or remain at home, as the ferry boats were frozen up.

Yesterday Miss McMullen was making the trip with two children, 7 and 10 years of age, who are daughters of Superintendent Gordon, of Fahy's farm. When half way over the ice Miss McMullen stepped into an airhole. She sank out of sight.

When she arose the two girls hastened to her assistance and the two fell into the water. Miss McMullen grasped the edges of the ice and let the children climb on her shoulders and thence onto the ice, warning them not to come near her again.

After she landed the children in safety she struggled to pull herself out, but exhaustion soon overcame her, and she sank out of sight.

Besieging Hastings.

Harrisburg, February 18.—The governor is besieged with applications for place in the department of agriculture, created by the bill on the calendar for second reading in the senate. Chairman Moore, of the agricultural committee, who had charge of the bill in the house, is a formidable aspirant for dairy and food commissioner in the proposed new department. Other aspirants are the incumbent Eastburn Reeder, of Bucks; J. Oheston Morris, of Philadelphia; Captain Levi Wells, of Bradford, and Jacob Sexton, superintendent of William M. Singerly's Montgomery county farm.

Commissioner Reeder is being urged by Justice Fell and the leading dairymen and farmers in eastern Pennsylvania, and is opposed by Chairman Gilkeson, of the state Republican committee, a neighbor. The grangers are urging the appointment of Moore, who is a member of the state Grange legislative committee. Dr. B. H. Warren, of West Chester, state ornithologist and author of the famous "bird book," may be economic zoologist.

Should be Speedily Tried.

New York, February 18.—Mrs. Helena Spearling, 42 years of age, of Hoboken, N. J., was killed by her husband this morning. Spearling had abused and ill treated his wife for some time and she complained to the police, who arrested him and he was sent to the Snake Hill penitentiary. This morning the couple had a quarrel in their bed room and as Mrs. Spearling turned to leave the room her husband seized her and drew a razor across her throat, severing the wind pipe and nearly cutting her head from the body. After cutting his wife's throat Spearling allowed her body to drop to the floor of the bedroom. He wiped his hands on the bed clothing and then went into the kitchen. He said to his mother in a calm tone: "Mother, I have killed her." When the police arrived all they could do was to notify the coroner. During the excitement the murderer made his escape.

A Bad Shot.

Old Farmer Wells, who lives on Maurice River Bay, N. J., had a horse that had outlived his usefulness and which the farmer wished to have put out of the way. The horse had been a pet and Mr. Wells being tender hearted, offered "Blizzard" a well-known character about the oyster grounds, a quart of whisky if he would take the animal from its stall some night and shoot it. This "Blizzard" agreed to do, but, for some reason, delayed the job a few days. In the meantime a friend drove up to the farmhouse with a $200 horse. The farmer's old horse was taken from its stall to make room for the guest's horse. "Blizzard" decided that night to do the killing job. He went to the stable, led the horse he found there into the adjacent woods and shot it. The farmer's guest discovered in the morning that his horse had been killed.

Rat Stampedes Worshipers.

Norristown, Pa., February 14.—A large congregation in Salvation Army Hall last night, was stampeded in the midst of prayer by an irreligious rat. The worshipers were kneeling when the inquisitive rodent meandered out to the middle of the floor. Women who were close enough to see the little beast quickly jumped upon their seats, while one less devout maiden cried "rats!" That started the stampede. The prayer ended abruptly, and instantly every skirted person present mounted a seat in terror. The soldiers of the sterner sex began a chase. The rat was too much for them and escaped. During the remainder of the service many of the gentler sex discretely sat upon the benches with their feet tugged snugly beneath them.

WE STILL BUILD SHIPS

Evidence That It Is a Live American Industry.

MANY TORPEDOBOAT BUILDERS.

Their Presence Caused a Comment From Mr. McAdoo—The Bids Very Complex and Hard to Decide—Two Firms Make Very Low Bids.

Washington, Feb. 20.—"American shipbuilding is not dead," remarked Assistant Secretary McAdoo, as he took his seat at the head of a long table in the office of the secretary of the navy to witness the opening of bids for building the three torpedo boats. His utterance was justified by the presence in the room of at least two dozen representatives of American shipbuilding works, and a formidable pile of bids and designs upon the table before the judge advocate general of the navy.

There were many faces familiar to the department people in the crowd and some new ones too. The only notable absentee was Mr. Cramp, who it was said had his eye on the battleships which it is hoped congress will provide for and consequently did not stoop to such little crafts as torpedo boats. There was Mr. Scott of the Union works, the blind boatbuilder Herreschoff, Frank King of the New Sparrow Point works, near Baltimore; Mr. Malster of the Columbian iron works, Baltimore; Mr. Ramsay of Perth Amboy, N. J.; one of the Dialogues of Camden, N. J.; Holland, the designer of the submarine boat, and representatives of the Dubnque iron works, the builders of the Ericsson.

The bidding was very complex and it will require much time and examination by the department experts to come to a conclusion as to where the contracts will be bestowed. Under the department's designs, Hugh Ramsay of Perth Amboy, has the lowest bid at $347,000 for the three boats, but he, as well as everybody else, is underbid when it comes to original designs, by the Columbia ironworks of Baltimore, which submits an aggregate bid of $292,500 for the three boats. The figures are not a sure indication of what the department will do in the matter, for there are many considerations to take into account, such, for instance, as the additional cost of sending a boat around to the Pacific coast, where it is sorely needed, the expediency of using bronze and aluminum instead of all steel, and lastly, the propriety of taking up the offer of the Union works to build a large 28-knot boat like the most speedy and modern of the British torped boats. Mr. Scott's last proposition is in conformity with the advertisement, but if it is possible to build this boat and have enough money left to construct two other smaller boats, it may be that such an arrangement can be made.

—A traveling salesman, Z. R. Keller, lost a satchel at Reading containing notes and papers valued at several thousand dollars.

—Bert Cobert, a Pittsburg traveling man, got into a row with a Youngstown (O.) woman, and she threw carbolic acid in his face. He was severely burned.

—In 1684 nearly all the birds of Europe were killed by the cold. Wolves entered Vienna and other large cities, and driven by hunger, attacked the people on the streets.

—The three women members of the Colorado legislature, Mrs. Carrie Clyde Holly, Mrs. Francis Klock and Mrs. Clara Cressingham, are considerably above the average of intelligence in the legislature.

—Oscar Fritchie, of North Jeannette, employed at the Gondola Tannin company's works in East Jeannette, was instantly killed last Sunday evening about 6 o'clock. In some manner his clothing caught in the set screw of the shaft and he was hurled around with lightning rapidity. His neck was broken and the back of his skull was crushed in. Deceased was aged probably 27 years and leaves a wife and one child.

—This is what Peter Cooper, who died worth many millions, said of a newspaper: "In all towns where a newspaper is published every man should advertise in it if nothing more than a card stating his name and the business he is engaged in. It does not only pay the advertiser, but lets people at a distance know that the town in which you reside is a prosperous community of business men. Never pull down your sign while you expect to do business."

—The Brookville Republican thus notes a legal fight in Jefferson county: "The famous Warsaw township school furniture case is ended at last, in favor of the school district. It was tried five times in our county court and went as often to the supreme court. The bill of costs paid by the School Furniture company to the school district amounted to over $1,200. The costs, attorneys' fees and expenses connected with the case must have summed up over $6,000. The price of the implements, and furniture in controversy was about $900.

The Blair county poor directors and the auditors are at loggerheads, the latter having surcharged the poor directors with $1,000 and a suit is now in court for that amount, alleged that the directors began to audit at the counts for last year. On the auditors began to audit at the accounts for 1894, they were notified by the president of the board that they would be expected to pay for their dinners and board while they were in the almshouse. The auditors have discovered an old law, the enforcement of which will be resisted by the directors, and they will adopt this measure of retaliation.

—A movement has been started in Johnstown to establish a paper mill at that place. The stock of the company is fixed at $50,000 in 500 shares of $100 each. A large amount of the stock has been subscribed and there are encouraging signs that the enterprise will materialize.

During all this cold weather the snow does not lay on what appears to be the crater. The ground is not even frosted, and the stones have the appearance of once being heated to a high degree of temperature.—Cherrytree Record

—Steve Kesel, a Hungarian miner, was the victim of an accident at Portage on Thursday afternoon which resulted later in the evening in his death. He was employed by the Puritan Coal Company in its shaft on the Trout run branch. He was being hoisted out of the shaft in the cage when a small piece of wood fell from the top, a distance of some sixty feet. By it he was struck on the back of the head, the weight of the stick crushing in the occipital bone and also forcing an entrance of several inches into the brain. ### License Court.

On Monday court was called with Judge Barker on the bench for the purpose of hearing the applications for license.

No licenses were granted at this time but all petitions were read over and in cases where remonstrances were filed they were heard. Judge Barker took occasion to make the announcement that all parties granted license must rigidly adhere to the 10 o'clock rule and a failure on their part would result in a revocation of the license.

A number of landlords were called up from different sections of the county and under oath were questioned as to whether or not they had been guilty of any infractions of the liquor laws and whether they obeyed the request of the court in regard to closing at 10 o'clock P. M. Some of the applicants admitted to having stepped over the traces on several occasions, while others maintained their strict compliance with the law and the order of the court. The announcement of the list of licenses granted will be made on the first Monday of March.

School Report.

In the West Ward.

BOO — — — UGH!

The result of the election in the West ward of Ebensburg on Tuesday is a certain indication of the views of the people on the cow ordinance. The issue was squarely made and squarely met by both sides and the result is in favor of less harsh measures than the drastic ordinance passed by councils last year and which that body never had the courage to attempt to enforce.

That an ordinance restraining cows from running at large at all times should be passed, no one will gainsay, but the ordinance must be a reasonable one in conformity with the wishes of the people.

If the members of the present council bend to the will of the people by the passage of a reasonable ordinance, they will be sustained. Those who will not bend the people will break.

Killed at Kittanning Point.

Mrs. Lucretia Irvin, of Kittanning Point, was run down by the Johnstown Express on Saturday morning and fatally injured. She was walking along the west-bound track about 8 o'clock, when the train rounded the Horse Shoe curve and rushed down upon her before she was able to get out of its way. Both of her feet were ground into a pulp by the wheels of the locomotive and she sustained an ugly laceration of the forehead above the right eye.

The train was stopped and the injured lady picked up and taken to the station. She was afterward removed to her home near by. Word was sent to Altoona and the railroad company sent Dr. S. M. Ross, of that city, to the scene on a special train. Dr. Ferguson, of Gallitzin, was also summoned.

Mrs. Irvin started out to visit a sick neighbor. Her head was bundled up and she did not hear the approaching express until it was too late to escape. The engineer said he blew the whistle, but the woman said she did not hear it. She died on Monday morning. The unfortunate woman was 48 years of age and is survived by her husband, Jeremiah Irvin, and 12 children.

Marriage Licenses.

The following marriage licenses were issued by the Clerk of the Orphans' Court for the week ending Thursday, February 21, 1895:

To Florida.

To the large number of people who feel the need of a mid-winter as well a midsummer holiday, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's personally-conducted tours to Florida especially commend themselves; the excursion rates being most liberal and the style of travel first-class in every particular.

The next of the series of Jacksonville tours, allowing two weeks' stay in Florida, will leave New York and Philadelphia on February 26, and others will leave on March 12 and 26. The rate, including transportation, meals en route, and Pullman berth on special train, is $50.00 from New York and $48.00 from Philadelphia; proportionate rates from other points.

For further information apply to ticket agents, or address Tourist Agent, 1196 Broadway, New York, or Room 411, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia, to whom application for space should also be made.

At the Opera House.

On Saturday, February 23rd, the Harvard Quartette, assisted by the popular lady reciter, Miss Elizabeth Gleason, will appear at the Ebensburg opera house, and will give the people of Ebensburg an opportunity of hearing a musical entertainment of the highest order. It is a first-class organization, as the following clippings will show:

The Harvard Quartette sustained the reputation it has acquired, of being composed of artists of the highest order. The rendering of the various numbers left nothing to be desired, and by the numerous encores demanded the appreciation of the audience was made manifest most unmistakably.—Philadelphia Record.

The Harvard Quartette was enthusiastically received. They have finely balanced voices, and their harmony was perfect. They were greeted with a storm of applause after each selection.—Bangor (Me.) Commercial.

Supposed to Have Been Murdered.

Grant W. Zufall, son of ex-Postmaster William H. Zufall, of Myersdale, Somerset county, mysteriously disappeared from Cumberland, Md., about three weeks ago, where he had been calling on a young lady of that place.

Last Saturday his dead body was found frozen in the ice on the canal at the glass works near Cumberland. Three men who were walking near the scene noticed a queer looking object on the ice, when a closer examination revealed a human head protruding. The body was easily identified as that of Zufall. On his person was found a time-book containing his name, a gold watch, a ring, and $16.93. He was known to have had $150 when last seen alive by his friends. The body was dreadfully swollen and was a horrible spectacle. The theory is that he was murdered and robbed.

Murder in Westmoreland.

On Saturday night about 12 o'clock Parkittown, a suburb of Mount Pleasant, Westmoreland county, was the scene of another murder. A dance was being held by the colored people at the residence of Robert Coleman, and during the progress of the dance Harry Brown and James Porter got into a dispute about who should take Brown's place in the next dance and Max Morgan, who thought they were quarrelling, started to quiet them, when Potter got boisterous and showed fight. Morgan then struck at Potter, who, quick as a flash, pulled two revolvers from his pocket and shot one load from each, the balls striking Morgan in the eyes, causing instant death. Porter then pointed the revolvers at the crowd and backed out of the room and escaped, and so far has eluded arrest.

Fleecing the Miners.

Mountaindale, Pa., Feb. 19, 1895.

Persons who have never worked around coal mines do not know the petty robbery that operators practice on the defenceless miners. At mines where no checkweighmen are employed the operators steal from 200 to 300 pounds from every car that the miner sends out.

The miner is charged 50 cents a month for sharpening picks. In a mine that employs 300 men, the company will receive $150 per month for smithing charges from the miners. One smith will do all the work of the miners and other work for the company incidental to the mine. He will receive from the company about $40 for his labor out of this $150 paid to the operator by the miners. In this way the operator gets all his own work done for nothing and secures over $100 a month from the miners.

At many large mines physicians are employed by the company on a small salary. The men are charged $1.00 per month each. Around works employing 300 miners there would be about 500 men required, and the company would collect each month about $500. They would probably pay the doctor, who is generally a student just from college, or some quack who cannot build up a practice on merit, $100 per month, thus leaving them $400 of the hard earned money of the miner.

They sell powder and oil to the miner on which they make over 100 per cent. Then comes the pluck-me store where the men are compelled to deal out their labor in stale goods at excessive prices.

There is a coal operator in this section who complains of how ill the people here treat him. He is sure they are the most dishonest people that he ever came into contact with. The writer remembers this same man fifteen years ago when he traveled throughout this country with a pack on his back begging people to buy his wares. Now he owns a large tract of coal land, store and several coal mines. If he stops to contemplate he will see that he has not fared so bad among our people. I guess he means that the people were dishonest with themselves in allowing a man like himself to "hoodo" them.

Jacob Stineman, our representative in Harrisburg, would do his constituents more substantial good if he would assist in legislating against the "pluck-me" stores instead of taking up the law-makers' time by introducing petty bills that are of little importance. Mr. Stineman is a coal operator and I wonder if he owns a store.

"Sammy" Kuhn, an experienced lumberman, intends to go to West Virginia to engage in the lumber business.

The inconsistency of advocating a high tariff on manufactured goods on the theory that it protects our workmen against the cheap labor of Europe, and at the same time importing hordes of paupers from Eastern Europe to compete with our American workmen in the mines and manufactories, is easily perceived by any man with a small measure of understanding.

A Vanderbilt Move.

New York, Feb. 18.—Are the Vanderbilts interested in the construction and operation of another trunk line to Chicago? This is the question that inside circles of Wall street wrestled with to-day and tried to solve.

The Vanderbilts have now two lines from New York to Buffalo, and three from there to Chicago; but they have no desirable connection with Pittsburg, a point they have been always anxious to reach. And so the story is that they are behind a movement looking to the opening of another trunk line to the Windy City.

The new road will not be constructed outright, but will be a combination of lines already in existence, with short stretches of track to connect them. It has been known for some time that the Wheeling & Lake Erie will form the western link of the proposed route, but up to-to-day the eastern section has been more or less of a surmise. But enough of the facts have come to the surface to show that the Vanderbilts are behind the present move, and that the Beech Creek railroad are to be part of the Eastern system.

The latter road only the other day doubled its capital stock in order to extend its tracks to the Smoky city, and the Wheeling & Lake Erie have only to be built from Pittsburg to Wellsville, O., to complete the trunk line. The surveys for these 24 miles have already been made. Your correspondent learns on the authority of one of the leading railroad financiers of Wall street that a rich corporation is more than anxious to tap the rich coke, coal and iron fields of Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, and in the light of to-day's developments there can be no question that it can be none other than the Vanderbilt people.

The present move is for the Pittsburg & Eastern to build their line from a connection with the Beech Creek road at Mahaffey, 129 miles west of Williamsport, to Pittsburg, a distance of about 150 miles, thus securing a continuous track from Philadelphia or New York to the Smoky City.

Cornelius Vanderbilt was seen to day by your correspondent, and asked whether the Pennsylvania and New York Central people were going to war again, as a result of rival extensions in their respective territories.

"I do not think so," replied Mr. Vanderbilt.

"Are the Vanderbilts interested in the Pittsburg & Eastern railroad move?"

"Well, I cannot say; I do not think so. You must excuse me." And Mr. Vanderbilt excused himself in a way which indicated that he knew more than he cared to talk about.

WARWICK IS MAYOR.

He Defeats Pattison In Philadelphia.

HIS MAJORITY OVER 50,000.

The Campaign a Memorable and Desperate Political Fight—Pittsburg Votes In Favor of Improvement Bonds—Elections In Other Pennsylvania Towns.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb 20.—All indications point to the election of Charles F. Warwick as mayor of this city by a majority estimated at from 50,000 to 60,000 over Robert E. Pattison, the ex-governor of the state. William J. Roney, the Republican candidate for receiver of taxes, has evidently been largely cut by his party, but his majority over Colonel Sylvester Conaffon, the Democratic and reform candidate, is estimated at 40,000. Twelve police magistrates, 11 select councilmen and 79 common coun cilmen have been elected, and present indications are that the Republicans have these offices.

Unusual interest was manifested in the election, and a remarkably large vote was polled. It was ideal "Republican weather"—mild and springlike with a bright sun shining. The day was generally observed as a holiday and the streets were crowded. The fight waged by the reform organizations, the municipal league, and the citizens committee of ninety-five was directed against the councilman whose records justified their "turning down."

The most sanguine of the Republican leaders did not hope for a majority higher than 35,000 or 40,000, while Governor Pattison expressed himself as confident that he would be elected by about 20,000 plurality.

That the Pennsylvania Democracy—the faction opposed to the leadership of National Chairman Harrity—cut Pattison is indicated by the fact that the Twelfth ward, which usually goes Democratic, gave Warwick 400 majority.

The Municipal league made a strenuous effort to prevent fraud, and had watchers employed in nearly every one of the almost 1,000 divisions in the city. It also notified every election officer that any one caught signing an election return before the polls closed would be prosecuted and sent to jail. In some divisions it has been the practice to prepare the returns early in the day, giving whatever majority may be mutually agreed upon, without the vote usually cast.

The returns came in very slowly, but in 17 wards out of the 37 which make out the city, there was a majority of 30,000 for Warwick. These same wards gave Hastings 40,000 over Singerly in the late gubernatorial election, when the total municipal majority was 85,000.

The greatest interest was manifested in this election, as it long since assumed the shape of a desperate fight against the Republican "combine," headed by David Martin and Senator Charles A. Porter. The "throwing down" by these leaders of Senator Penrose just before the convention, at which it was generally supposed he would be nominated, created a great deal of disaffection among Republicans, and led to the open breach between Senator Quay and the leaders of the combine. From that time it was thought that Quay would give his support to Mr. Pattison, but the overwhelming majority rolled up by the Republicans clearly demonstrates that Mr Quay decided to sacrifice his personal feelings to the good of his party and turned in for the support of the ticket.

Mr Warwick received the returns at Mayor Stuart's office and expressed his great satisfaction at the result, though agreeably surprised at the large figures.

The returns from the Eighth ward—Senator Penrose's ward—show a majority for Warwick of 1,007. Hastings' majority in the ward last November was 1,808.

PITTSBURG,—The city will get its contemplated improvements by the issuing of bonds, that, at least, was the verdict of the people at the polls yesterday when they voted by an almost overwhelming majority in favor of the increase of debt. The general estimated majorities would give for public safety bonds a majority of 17,500; water, 17,500; parks, 15,000, and boulevards, 15,000.

ALTOONA—At the election held here the Republicans elected their candidates for school directors, J. M. Kemmerling and A. C. Lytle, by 700 majority. John A. Doyle, Democrat, was elected alderman in the Third ward. Several Democratic councilmen were elected, but Republicans still have a safe majority in both branches of the city government.

WASHINGTON—Three Republicans and one Democrat were elected to council here tying that lady Taylor, Democrat, was elected to the schoolboard by a majority of 58, leaving that board in the control of the Democratic party.

ALLEGHENY CITY—The people of Allegheny city decided by an overwhelming majority to authorize the issuing of $1,405,324 of bonds for public improvements and at the same time it decided by almost as pronounced a vote that it will place the spending of the money in the hands of other men than those who have handled the city's finances in the past two years.

ERIE—The election in Erie for council and school directors resulted in a majority in both for the Republicans. The city government is entirely Republican now.

Time For Spiritual Preparation.

The Case Dismissed.

DENVER, Feb. 20.—Justice Cowell has dismissed the case against Rev. Frank Spalding, principal, and five members of the faculty of Jarvis Hall Military academy, who were arrested last week for severely flogging two unruly cadets.

SILVER MEN BEATEN.

They Are Unable to Pass the Free Coinage Bill In the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The senate adjourned after a determined, but fruitless effort on the part of the silver men, led by Mr. Jones (Ark.), to pass the bill for the unrestricted coinage of silver.

Mr. Jones himself made the the motion to adjourn, after it had been made evident that a voting quorum of senators could not be held in the senate chamber for an all night struggle.

One of the surprises immediately preceding the adjournment, was a resolution submitted by Mr. Wolcott (Colo.), one of the most active silver leaders, declaring that while the welfare of the country required the free coinage of silver, at the ratio of 16 to 1, yet, in view of the near adjournment of congress and the pressing demand for appropriation bills, it was inexpedient to enter upon the consideration of the silver bill at the present session of congress. No action was taken on the resolution, but is was regarded as significantly foreshadowing the course of the silver bill.

The silver forces asserted their strength at the outset of the proceedings, and by a vote of 36 to 27, displaced the morning business and took up the silver bill before the regular order had been reached.

Mr. Vilas (Wis.) then took the floor for four hours in a carefully prepared speech defending the administration for the recent bond contract. When Mr Vilas concluded, active steps were taken by the silver men to force a final vote. It was evident, however, that the opposition was ready to talk against time and thus carry the debate through the night, if necessary, to cut off a vote. Mr Platt (Conn.) then took the floor and made an argument against the bill being frequently interrupted by points of no quorum, and roll calls and suggestions for closing debate.

Mr Jones appealed to the opposition to fix a time for a vote, but no agreement could be reached. Finally the senate business was brought to a complete standstill by the failure to secure a quorum, on Mr Aldrich's motion to go into executive session.

From that time until adjournment vain efforts were made to secure a voting quorum, although a quorum was present most of the time, many senators refusing to vote. This tedious process continued until Mr Jones reluctantly yielded and the long session closed.

VETOED AN OHIO BILL.

The President Refuses to Remove Desertion Charges Against Jacob Eckert.

WASHINGTON, Feb 20.—The president has sent to the house his veto of the bill to remove the charge of desertion against Jacob Eckert. The bill was introduced by Representative Richards (O.). The president gives the record of the beneficiary who lives at New Philadelphia, O. He was a private in Company B, Fifty-first Ohio volunteers, and was convicted and sentenced to 12 months imprisonment by a court martial for desertion. The president then says:

"It seems to be that the provisions of this bill amount to a judgment of a regularly constituted court and legislative pardon of an offense of which the soldier was convicted. If this doubtful authority is to be exercised by congress, it should be done in such a manner as not to restore a man properly convicted and sentenced as a deserter, without even the allegation of injustice, to the rights of pay, allowances and pension belonging to those who faithfully and honorably engaged in the military service of their country."

The Session of the House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The house spent the session in the further consideration of the naval appropriation bill. The points of order made by Mr. Sayers against the items for the increase of the enlisted force of the navy were overruled and his amendments looking to their elimination were defeated. The committee on naval affairs were victorious on every test of strength taken. ## Hundreds Cry For Revenge on Harry Hayward.

THE PRISONER SNEERED AT THEM.

He Went to His Cell In the Prison as Gay as Ever—Attempt of the Defense to Prove Insanity Will Be a Failure. His Family Record Good.

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 20.—The state's representative in the Hayward case in Illinois, is in the city, and states that the state has nothing to fear from the insanity depositions, which have been secured at the old home of the Haywards. He says the whole country near where the depositions were taken is peopled with distant relatives of the Haywards. The antecedents of the family were traced back as far as 1736, covering hundreds of people, and only six insane cases could be found. In his opinion the family has a first-class record. In many of the cases, in fact in all but one, it was found that the insanity was not hereditary, but was brought about by disease and accidents.

After the adjournment last night there was an immense crowd waiting outside the courtroom to see Harry taken to the jail. They waited until the prisoner was brought out in irons and then there was a demonstration. After he had passed Fourth street the cry went up from the top of a lumber wagon in a hoarse voice: "Hang him. Hang him."

The crowd had only been waiting for the cue, and from all sides, from hundreds of hoarse throats the cry went up: "Hang him. Hang him."

The prisoner looked over his shoulder at the crowd and smiled with that peculiar sneer which he knows so well how to assume. The yell had not phased him and he went to his prison cell as gay as ever.

THAT MONSTER PETITION.

It Is Presented to the President by the Ladies.

WASHINGTON, Feb 20.—Senator Frye, at the request of his fellow-citizen—Mrs L. M. N. Stevens of Maine—to whom arrangements for the occasion were committed, has introduced to President Cleveland a committee of ladies of the W. C. T. U. designated to present to him the immense polyglot temperance petition. The meeting took place in the library of the executive mansion. The committee, headed by Miss Willard and Lady Henry Somerset, consisted of the general officers of the National W. C. T. U.—Mrs. Hoffman, Mrs. Barker and Mrs. K. L. Stevenson. Miss Willard acted as spokeswoman of the committee. The ladies after the interview with the president met Mrs. Cleveland for a few moments in the red parlor. The petition itself of course, was too bulky to be presented except figuratively.

The president, in reply, stated that he regarded the object of the petition as one in which all good men and women should take an interest. He closed by expressing the pleasure he felt in receiving the representatives of the W. C. T. U.

Representative Blair (N. H.) introduced a resolution in the house proposing an amendment to the constitution prohibiting the liquor traffic in the United States. The resolution is introduced by "request of the general officers of the World's and the National W. C. T. U." and as the legal expression of the polyglot petition presented to the president.

"Dear friend of women:

"When my baby was born, five years ago, I got up in six days. Far too soon. Result: falling of the womb. Ever since I've been miserable.

"I tried everything: doctors, medicines, apparatus; but grew worse.

"I could hardly stand; and walking without support was impossible.

"At last I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and decided to try it. The effect was astonishing. Since I took the first bottle my womb has not troubled me, and, thanks only to you, I am now well. Every suffering woman should know how reliable your compound is. It is a sure cure."

A Case of Deafness of Over 25 Years, Standing Cured by Dr. Salm.

For 25 years or more my hearing has been bad, my left ear almost deaf. I have been under Dr. Salm's treatment for the past five months, and my hearing has been very greatly improved, in fact the change has been remarkable. I am still under treatment and hope for an entire cure.

Gratefully, ISAAC PETERSON.

Bedford, Pa., Sept. 10, 1894.

On account of the very vague explanation of the above, I give the history of the case in detail. About 20 years ago Mr. Peterson, on account of catarrh, became so hard of hearing in his left ear that the same might not have been there at all for the actual services it did him. The right one to the last 20 years became worse and worse, and it took some very loud talking for him to understand you. Now, after five months' treatment, he can hear again with the totally useless ear, so as to say dear for dear, conversation and even whispers again, and his right ear is almost as good as any good ear might be. Friends who know him will fortify to the correctness of my statement.

DR. M. SALM.

Felt Like Dying Rather Than to Stand the Ago by Much Longer, But Was Cured By Dr. Salm.

For five years I have had kidney, stomach and liver trouble. The fearful pains in my back and bladder I had during that time made me often wish for death. I could hardly work, sleep or rest, and had to get up every night every or five times to void urin. Could hardly eat and when I tried a little of something it made me ill, and after hour of our first physicians had failed to cure me, I thought it was about time to die. Some of my friends, however, advised me to go to Dr. Salm, who had performed so many wonderful cures in this part of the country. After I had taken his treatment four days I found it did me some good. I have taken his treatment now for six months and can enjoy life once more, and I would advise all my friends to go to this eminent doctor to get cured, after other physicians fail.

Yours gratefully, ELIAS ZERFOSS.

Somerset, Pa.

For over 12 years my eyes were troubling me, and certain specks in the eye-ball, keeping the same in a very painful. In one of these I had been under our best physicians but got no relief, and grew worse, until I was recommended to Dr. Salm by one of his patients who had been under similar trouble. I despaired of ever seeing again, I left so badly. To-day I am happy that I put myself under the Doctor's care, for I can enjoy life again with pleasure, glad that I am cured.
